TITLE/SIGNIFICANCE:
Variation of Soviet Grain Storage Bunkers

COMMENT: Two new grain storage bunkers have been identified in Leningrad Oblast which differ somewhat from the bunkers described in IEG PI Notice 38-76. The primary difference is that the type of truck transfer facility seen at most grain storage bunkers is not present at the two newly identified bunkers. Instead, there are two long buildings paralleling the grain bunker which probably house truck dumping equipment. A drive-in entrance and rail transfer facility characteristic of other grain storage bunkers are present. The newly identified storage bunkers are not collocated with aboveground grain storage facilities, as is the case of all but two of the 36 previously identified grain storage bunkers.
